

FREE ASSET HEALTH CHECK

Every asset has a service life - the expected years it can be expected to perform its function. Factors such as carbonation, abrasion, atmospheric chlorides or exposure to harmful chemicals can affect this service life, especially in harsh environments such as wastewater treatment plants. Once corrosion takes hold, it often does so quickly and can take an asset out of service or lead to service failure.

CSC Services are offering a free Asset Health check. A full examination of the asset will identify and quantify any signs of corrosion, and assess the condition of current protective coatings and/or mortars.

Recommendations will be made as to how the service life-span of the asset can be extended by effectively protecting against chemical attacks, joint-leaks, cracks and surface corrosion. This will take into account all relevant factors such as the location of the asset and the environmental factors in which it operates.

As CSC Services' undertake product training with many of the UK leading coatings manufacturers, impartial advice can be offered on the best course of action to protect the service life of the asset. Recommendations for a suitable inspection programme will also be provided.
